I am a creative young man, I like challenges because they are the ones that allow us to look for new opportunities and ways of doing our work. One of my hobbies is to study and learn something new every day, I am self-taught, proactive and dedicated. I like to be organized and disciplined because I believe that these qualities are the basis of the good performance of any activity. I am currently reinforcing my programming skills in Back-End and Front-End technologies to provide value in all projects that I am willing to carry out.
